Jason Owusu, Discover

Discover is a register of adults 18 and over living in North West London who are interested in health research and want to find out more about health research opportunities.

If you live in North West London, then Discover is your opportunity to contribute to health research. Often people who want to contribute to this kind of research (whether they're unwell or not) don't know where to start or who to ask. Researchers have a similar problem – they want to improve healthcare, but sometimes can't find people to participate in studies.

Discover is a way to bridge this gap, bringing the public and researchers together. It is a register of any adults (18 and over) living in North West London who are interested in health research and want to find out more about health research opportunities. The register is for both healthy people and those with a medical condition.
